19. Damages will be paid by the insurance company based on the Insurance Appendix provided to Avia by the customer or by representative thereof.
20. Avia is not liable to any damages to the stored goods beyond the basic insurance, but is willing to assist in obtaining insurance for damages arising from burglary, as well as from fire, flood or other forces of nature other than earthquakes, for a 0.18%.

The customer hereby acknowledges that Avia may hold the stored goods as above, and that it may retain goods in lieu of any outstanding balance on the part of the customer.
25. Avia may block a Smart Card if such was issued to a customer in the event of failure to make timely payments.
26. By signing this contract the customer acknowledges that payment overdue beyond two months without satisfactory notification to Avia entitles the latter to dispose of the stored goods at its discretion - including the transfer of the goods to the address provided by the customer or to a central storage facility, donating a portion of the goods the value of which does not exceed a total of 12-months-worth of storage fees as determined by an appraiser, or taking any other legal or commercial steps - and to regard the customer as having irrevocably forgone all rights to the stored goods. In avoidance of doubt, the customer will bear all costs incurred in the undertaking of the aforementioned steps, as well as any other costs accumulated in the course of the same.
